CiAM's MBA is Now Available 100% Online

California Institute of Advanced Management (CiAM) is now offering an MBA fully online, with classes starting Jan 9th, 2021.

Alhambra, CA: While most MBA programs teach textbook theory, California Institute of Advanced Management (CiAM) takes students inside real businesses, meeting with real business owners, learning their real-world problems, and developing real solutions. We call this High Impact Learning and it has been proven to be the most effective way to learn how to run a successful business.

CiAM's unique online master's degree in business administration uses a holistic approach, considering multiple disciplinary perspectives as well as analyzing past and present critical issues alongside future possibilities for management and leadership in business settings. Through peer-to-peer exchanges in online courses, active participation in online discussion forums, group consulting projects, case studies, business simulations, service learning, and critical dialogue and debate, students are prepared to create sustainable and positive change as business leaders.

As one of the largest private, not-for-profit MBA schools in the greater Southern California region, CiAM is dedicated to finding and educating business leaders for a new world. Traditional MBAs are known to focus on profit and productivity and many of the new generation of students feel that the leadership from these traditional MBAs has led businesses to make greedy and destructive decisions. This old profit-over-people focus can be attributed to many of our social problems today, including homelessness, housing unaffordability, social inequality, management-worker pay gap inequity, and even climate change.

CiAM's mission is to forge a new type of business leader. These true global-minded humanitarians understand that the well-being and development of people, working in the communities where they live, is a monumental force for progress and change toward the creation of a more healthy, balanced, sustainable, thriving, prosperous and just society. We call this new business education "Management as a Liberal Art (MLA)", a Peter Drucker based philosophy of management and the core of CiAM's educational principles.
